Social Security has been one of our government's most successful programs for over 80 years. It has helped seniors, children, families, and individuals with disabilities. Medicare is another successful program that, for more than 50 years, has provided seniors and other Social Security recipients' medical care.

What will happen if these necessary programs are rolled back, converted to vouchers, or privatized? Will seniors who need longterm care still have access to Medicaid? What can we do to defend what we already have and expand these programs to include more of the services we need?

Join the Southeast Seattle Senior Center and PSARA for lunch and a discussion of these vital issues.
